Infanticide is occurring in America. Each week newborns are found in dumpsters, garbage cans or left in dangerous locations. NSHA presents this National Infant Abandonment Conference to provide best practice and education on a tragic occurrence that is preventable. Equipping ourselves with the knowledge and awareness to help others in their most desperate moments will be an answer to how we will stand for babies and parents in crisis.

Our speakers include; Safe Families Representative Josh Weathers, Gladney Center Adoption Specialist Meg Scamardo, Professor Emily Douglas, PhD, Jacquelyn Aluotto, NSHA Director Heather Burner, Morgan Jayne Hill, Suzanne Hobbs, Melissa Coles and more.
